FEATURES OF OUR PROPHET (PBUH)

When Ali would describe the Prophet (pbuh), He would say, "He was not very tall nor very short, but of medium stature among people. His hair was neither very curly nor very straight, but had a slight wave in it. He was not fat nor was his face fully rounded. It was however slightly rounded. His complexion was white with redness in it. His eyes (irises) were the blackest of all and eyelashes the longest. His skeletal joints were large and the area between his shoulders was prominent. He was scarce in bodily hair, but had a thin line of it running down the centre of his chest. His palms and feet were fleshy. When he walked, he lifted his legs forcefully, as if he were descending to a downward slope. When he addressed somebody he turned his whole body towards the person. The seal of prophethood was situated between his shoulders. He was the last of all prophets. He was the most generous and truthful of all people. He was the most tender in temperament and came from the most noble of families. Any person who saw him suddenly would become overawed. And one who met him with recognition would love him. One describing him would say I have never seen a person like him, neither before nor after him."

THE KA'BAH - MAKKAH

Assalamu-alaykum, Amigos.

We went to my friends house for supper. They were making a special meal for our whole family so we wore our best clothes.

They had a huge spread of food and it smelled delicious.

When it was time to eat, Amina filled her plate with all the different kinds of food.

I asked her, "Are you sure you will finish all that food?"

She said, "Yeah, yeah and helped herself to another two kebabs!"

After a few minutes had passed, "Amina said, "I can't eat any more!" She had hardly touched her food.

My friends mum asked Amina, "What's wrong is the food too spicy?" Amina said, "No. I'm not hungry anymore." She said, "You should not waste food."

Amina went bright red like a tomato. Poor Amina. Penpal

Allah has given us many blessings for which we must continuously thank Him. Allah has given some people more and some people less.

If Allah has given us something, like an abundance of wealth or food, we must be careful to use it in a way which will please Him. If we waste our wealth or food then Allah will not be pleased.

On the day of Judgement, we will need to account for all these blessings and how we used them. If we wasted food whilst so many people are starving in the world then what will we say to Allah?

Do you know that some people in the world are so poor and hungry that they are forced to eat leaves and grass. They are forced to drink water from puddles. Never waste any food and always thank Allah for whatever he has given you.

Food is something you shouldn't waste
Even if you don't like the taste.

About the poor you should always think
And don't waste any food or drink

Only eat and drink what you need
Taking too much is called greed

Eat it, taste it
But don't waste it

THE VALLEY

As Hisham bin Amr approached the Sha'b Abi Talib, he could hear the Muslim children crying. They were not crying because they were sad but because they were so hungry. When Hisham heard the crying it made him feel very sad.

The Makkans had decided to boycott the Muslims and made sure that no one would sell them food or do any business with them. All the Muslims had moved to the valley of Abu Talib in Makkah. Here they lived together and were now suffering very much.

The Makkans were continuously on the look out for people trying to do business with the Muslims. If they saw a merchant trying to sell anything to the Muslims, they would pay huge amounts of money so that the Muslims wouldn't get anything.

 Sometimes, late at night, some people would smuggle food into the valley and give it to their relatives and friends. This small amount of food was appreciated by the Muslims and they would share it.

Most often the Muslims would have to eat the leaves of trees to survive. Hashim decided that he had to change the condition of the Muslims and would talk to the Makkans. Hashim went to the Ka'bah and talked to other people who had similar concern for the Muslims.

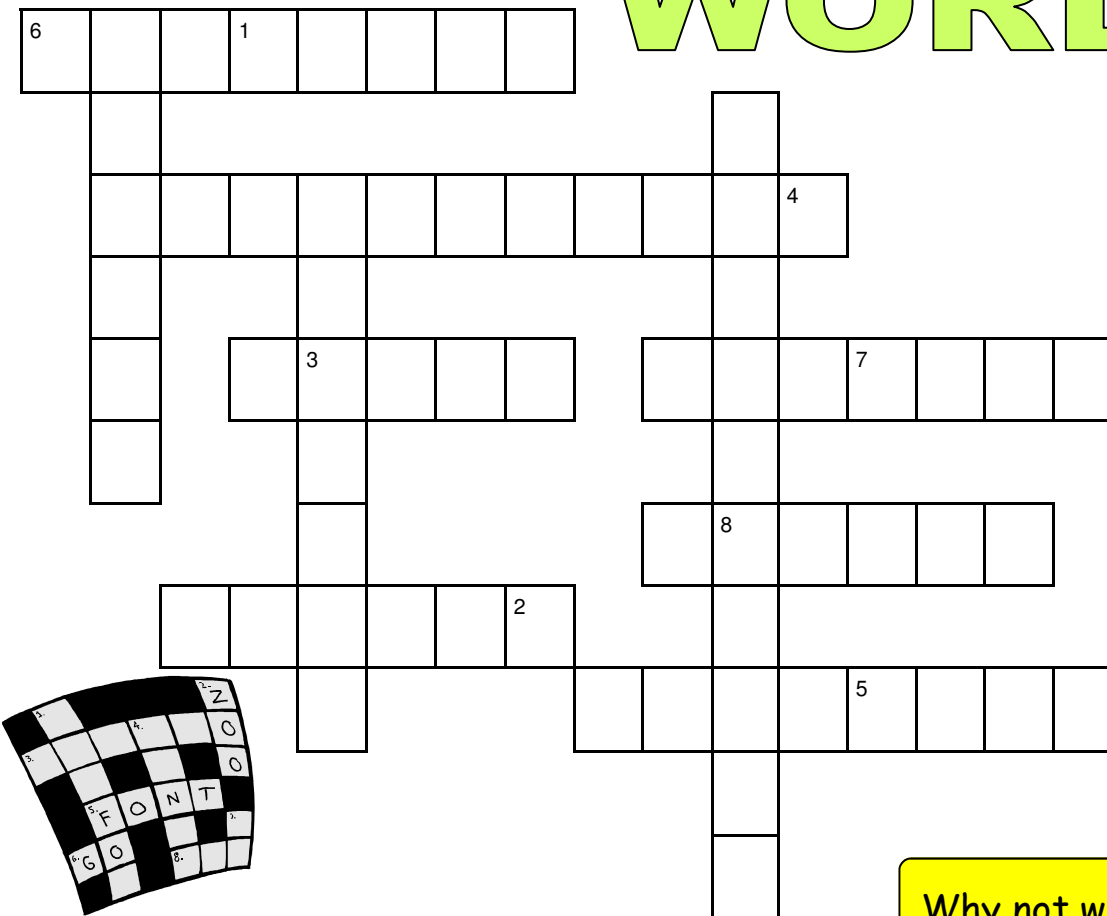

The Makkans had made a treaty amongst themselves and all the tribe leaders had signed it. This signed document had then been hung in the Ka'bah. All the Makkans refused to lift the boycott because of this treaty.

Allah caused some ants to eat the treaty and when the Makkans were forced to check it, they were shocked to see that only the first few words of the documents were left. The Makkans then lifted the boycott and finally, after almost two years, the suffering of the Muslims was over.

 Assalamu-alaykum, we have probably never suffered hunger, real hunger. In Ramadhan, we feel some hunger and we appreciate the suffering of those who have no food. We must always remember those less well off than us and always be grateful for what we have. PP

DID YOU KNOW?

Muslims developed hospitals where people from all backgrounds could get treated. They would also train doctors in these centres and provide excellent medical care.

During this time, Europe was still in the dark ages. They still cured headaches by drilling holes in the head of to the patient to let evil spirits out!

HISTORY

Muhammad (pbuh) was in the cave in mount Hira when the Angel Jibrael came to him with the first revelation. He (pbuh) was forty years old at the time.
